The Nevada County Concert Band performed a free concert for our community yesterday and had a great turnout. The perfect weather and beautiful setting at Nevada City's Pioneer Park Bandshell encouraged the audience to bring blankets and lawn chairs to listen to the Sousa Marches.

Janet Dunstan was the lucky winner of a military replica bugle. Band conductor, Patti Carter, also a trombonist, gave her a lesson on how to play it, and Dunstan quickly blew a note! Emcee Jim Kerr from KNCO radio, watched carefully.

Crowd estimates were over 500 people. The children in the audience were given red, white & blue balloons handed out by "prospector" Ted Peach.

The Nevada County Concert Band can be seen again at the Nevada County Fair on Sunday, August 11 at 3pm on the Pine Tree Stage. Their next Pioneer Park Picnic Pops concert's theme is "Swing, Swing, Swing" and is Sunday, August 18 at 5pm.
